Poetical.

HEARTS OF GOLD.

A traveler lost on eastern sands,
Athirst and faint, with failing breath,
Takes from his sack with trembling hands
The flask that stands 'twixt him and death.

He hastes to drain the priceless drops;
But scarce has raised it to his lips,
When a low moan he hears—and stops:
There on the ground, with lolling tip

Of parch-ed tongue, his camel lies,
Panting and faint, yet faithful still,
Pleading with his soft, Syrian eyes,
But patient to his master's will.

He who had borne him oft in strength,
From Jaffa's gates to Jericho,
Along the shining, level length
Of deserts white as northern snow,

He whom his little ones caressed
At evening, by the fring-ed palms,
And sported round the honest breast
As safe as in their mother's arms.

Shall he not share the scanty draught,
Though madness burns in every vein,
And dreams of fountains he had quaffed
Come circling to the tortured brain?

His doom is sealed; for ere the day
Shall sink below the mocking vast,
His life must close, and on the way
To paradise his soul have passed;

And when he stands by Allah's throne
The record of his years to trace,
This act of mercy left undone
May dim the fairest page of grace:

So, covering up his face, he pressed
The flask against his comrade's tongue—
As brave a deed of self repressed
As ever yet was said or sung!

Years after, by a caravan
That journeyed south, the pair were found,
The succored beast, the martyr-man,
Bleached skeletons upon the ground.

As simplest things will oft unveil
The cherished secrets of the heart,
The posture told a tender tale
Of how the hero played his part.

Not English Sidney's fame shall glow
More brightly than this golden deed
On Syrian sands so long ago,
Of one who put aside his need,

That suffering lips might feel no loss;
And though their faiths were wide apart—
The crescent there, and here the cross—
The pulse of every honest heart

Must thrill and thrill with holy pride,
As run these tales through all the lands,
How S dney for his con rade died,
And how upon the desert sands

The Syrian sank, in scorching noon,
A nameless hero evermore—
In Moslem robe and sandal-shoon,
Yet Christ-like to his being's core!

GENTLE INFLUENCES.

Violets, in the leafiest shade,
By their odors are betrayed;
Soft winds, over flower-fields blown,
By their fragrant breath are known;
Dew, by freshened leaves confessed,
Wets unseen ear h's slumbering breast;
Rills from out the bleak hill-side,
Swell to rivers, deep and wide.
Rivers, flowing fast and free,
Widen to the boundless sea;
All great things that move the earth
To gentle issues owe their birth;
And soft influence still is best,
Bringing comfort, love and rest.
Sweet domestic love is strong—
Leads to right and warns from wrong;
Kindly whispers mightier prove,
And to loftier action move,
Than the fretful voice of scorn,
Of contempt and anger born.

Select Story.

HER WAITING.

Clarence and Caryl both paused at the sight of her, making the fairest picture they had seen since they started on their sketching tour, a month before.

It was midsummer now—mild July—a fervent, sunny day; and they had lounged along the country road leisurely, until the ardent heat and weariness, and perhaps just a little laziness, induced them to get off the regular road, in among the great wooded slopes on the hillside, where a little rivulet of clear water foamed and lashed itself down from some icy mountain spring away up in the solemn fastness among the clouds.

And in among the flickering shadows, standing in the crystal brook, holding her blue calico skirt up in her little sunburnt hands, so that the lovely contour of her ankles were so innocently displayed—the little, battered hat of grass and daisy-wreathed straw hanging on her bare arm—her dark, lustrous dark, hair gently blowing in the breeze—her great, wondering, dark eyes shyly watching the approaching travelers, who had halted so suddenly—it certainly was as charming a pastoral as imagination could have invented, with all the accessories of flickering sunshine and solemn shadow, purling water and sighing wind.

"What a picture!" Clarence said almost reverently. "What a face! See those eyes, Caryl!"

Caryl laughed.

"Very pretty—very pretty indeed. But, as long as she has discovered us, we may as well go forward. It's glorious cool and refreshing here, but I dare say we've a five-mile tramp ahead of us yet before we catch up with the rest of 'em."

They continued until they came up to the little brook, that effectually cut off their progress.

Then Clarence lifted his hat, and smiled his own gracious smile that had set so many foolish woman-hearts to thinking of him.

"Tell us, please, if this is Maumee creek; and is there any way of getting over?"

Her little scarlet mouth suddenly parted, in a bright, sunny smile.

"It is Maumee creek, sir, and there are two ways of crossing it, if you don't mind a little trouble."

She looked down at their booted feet then up again at Clarence's admiring face.

"I don't believe we would object to following any advice you would give."

That same sweet caressing tone in his voice that Edith Sartoris thought the sweetest music in all the world—that even at that very minute she was thinking of and yearning to hear, as, sitting in her room at a seaside hotel, she was reading his letter to "his own little darling!"

And Gordon Caryl saw the same look brighten in the little rustic maiden's eyes, the same half delicious, half shy flush delicately tint in her clear brunette face, that he had seen in so many other women's faces.

"You can either wade across, sir, or jump over—it isn't more than six or seven feet wide."

A roguish little look rose in her eyes as she suggested both plans.

Clarence turned to Caryl, who had stood all the while quiet and grave; but then Caryl usually was quiet and grave, for all he was considered the "best fellow of the lot."

"Shall we draw lots for a decision?" he asked.

And for an answer, Caryl sprang forward and cleared the little, shallow, rushing stream with a bound.

Clarence assumed an expression of injured pain.

"I wouldn't have believed it of you, Caryl! I never was an acrobat, but I can assure you I have no intention of being left out in the cold this way."

And, with his matchless grace and coolness, he sat comfortably down on a mossrock and removed his low, handsome shoes, and gray, crimsoned clocked stockings, displayed shapely feet, white as a woman's.

And then he stepped into the stream, and when beside the young girl, paused and bowed.

"Will you let me escort you to the bank in safety."

"It would have been impossible not to have been amused by his mock, elaborate courtesy; and she smiled shaking her head:

"Thank you! It is not at all necessary."

And then they all stood on the opposite shore, where Clarence donned silken hose and Oxford ties again.

Not till then did Caryl take any part in the conversation.

"We are on our way to Red Rock Lake," he said, courteously. "We are not positively sure we are on the shortest road, or how much further we have to travel. If you could only tell us, Miss—"

A grave little smile supplied the interogative in his question.

"My name is Estelle, and I can tell you what you wish to know; but you are on the wrong road, if you mean to join the camping out party on the lake, up in the mountains. By this road you will have fifteen miles to go."

Clarence gave a dismal exclamation.

"Fifteen miles! and high noon already! That is appalling news, Miss Estelle; but of course you cannot know our knapsacks are empty, and I am expiring of starvation."

She watched his debonair, handsome face so earnestly, yet so modestly, while he spoke; then she turned proudly toward Caryl.

"If you will be willing to stop at our cottage, a half mile up yonder," and she pointed away up among almost impassable wooded slopes, "I will be glad to give you your dinners. Grandma and Uncle Thuel will be pleased to see you, and it is directly on the right road to the camp. I can show you the tents from our house—the lake is just below, on the other side of the mountain."

Her ready, fluent speech, refined and gently spoken, her sweet half-reserved, wholly dignified manner, were most charming and girlish, and Caryl accepted her invitation readily.

"We will be only too glad and grateful. Come, Clarence, you're equal to climbing the mountain, I hope?"

Clarence sent a glance to Estelle's eyes.

"With such a guide I'd follow the world over."

Then, when a swift frown of displeasure darkened on Caryl's face, the meaning of which he well knew, he purposely dropped behind him, and walked side by side with the silent, lovely young creature.

"Estelle! it just fits you, that soft, sweet melodious name."

She flushed a trifle.

"I am glad you like it—I never did, I shall now," she added in a curious, solemn little undertone.

And their eyes met—only one brief look; but after that Estelle scarcely spoke a word on their toilsome up-hill journey.

But the arrival! Tired, heated, hungry, though they were, they paused in rapturous ecstasy at the magnificent sight spread below them—the glorious expanse of lake, and forest, lower hills and winding river, distant town and nestling villages

"And you live here?"

Caryl looked at her as though she were a saint.

She laughed—her happy girlish laugh.

"I have always lived here, and I love the place dearly."

With charming delicacy she left them alone with the silent, solemn scene that entranced them so; and then, a few minutes afterward, returned, accompanied by a middle-aged man, with a bronzed, pleasant face.

"These are the gentlemen, Uncle Thuel," she said, and then flitted away again, to leave the men to become better acquainted.

Then they had dinner, at which a sweet faced, white-haired old lady presided with homely, hearty grace.

Hours afterward when, for the first time in all her life Estelle stole off by herself purposely to think of a man's handsome face, and sweet, caressing voice, she tried to realize how it all came about that Mr. Algernon Clarence—she knew his name well enough by this time—how he had managed, after dinner while his friend was talking with Uncle Thuel about the hunting and fishing thereabouts, to find her out among the trees, and have a pleasant, long talk with her; when he told her kindly friendly things, and how he hoped to be allowed to come again often, when the camping out party remained at the lake.

And then he told her that every night when dark came, he should look up to the cottage perched on the mountain side, and if he saw always a light in the highest front window—the little window away up in the peak of the roof—he would know she was thinking of him. Would she do it if he would agree to hang a little white flag out every day.

It was something so new to her, so romantic, so strangely, inexpressibly sweet, and, with her young girl's heart thrilled to its very centre, Estelle shyly promised; and—now they were gone. To-morrow would he remember or forget the little flag—the sign that he thought of her?

And the first thing her eager eyes saw, when she looked down through the clearing mists in the valley, next sunrise, was the pure white flag, blowing exultantly in the crisp westerly breeze!

And at night, as handsome Clarence lay stretched on his hammock, ready to go to sleep, the last object his lazy, blue eyes saw was a tiny spot of light like some near-by star, away up on the dark silent mountain side!

* * * * * * * *

The bright summer day passed away, and many and many a time Clarence idled away many a delicious hour with the girl, who had learned to watch for his coming, as flowers crave the glad sunshine.

Often, Caryl came—grave, kindly, always bringing a happy smile to Estelle's face, ever receiving a glad welcome; for—was he not his friend?

And so the summer days passed away, and the gay little party that had camped out on Red Rock Lake broke up, each going his way; and the last night that the steady little light, so like a star, shown down upon them from the hill-side cottage, Caryl was there without Clarence—for an imperious message from fair Edith that day, had sent him speedily on his way to her, eager to see her and take her in his arms again; while the light burned in the upper window for him!

He had not gone to tell Estelle good-by. He was a little cowardly about it, for he knew he could not promise to see her ever again, and he dared not tell her about Edith Sartoris.

Caryl had spoken sharply to him about it—more sharply than he ever had spoken before—but Clarence had laughed it off.

And gone—out of Estelle's life.

That night the light gleamed steadily all the hour until the usual hour for its extinguishment, shining not for the lover Estelle loved, but for the man who had loved her with all his soul—Gordon Caryl, whom she liked because he was his friend.

That next day he went to say farewell and there was nothing for him to do but to tell her just how it was, and then to witness her anguish, her proud silent agony, that refused itself plaint or cry.

"If you could but forget him, Estelle! Can you not forget him, and let me love you? Oh, child! if you but only knew how I had loved you from the very first! If you but only knew, to what rest, and comfort, and happiness, I would take you!"

Her quiet, white face awed him, as the face of the dead silences one.

"That could never be," she answered, simply. "I could never learn to unlove him. And besides," and then a strange, wandering, far away look came to her eyes that terrified him, because he saw that the awful sorrow was stealing her reason—"besides, I am very sure he will come back again.

* * * * * * * *

It has been fifty years since then, and Clarence and his frivolous wife have led a cat-and-dog's life, until their grandchildren have learned to hold them in contempt; while away among the solemn and silent mountains there lives a silver-haired old woman, with a sad, silent face, the one chief business of whose life has been, for half a century, to keep ready for its nightly burning a little, old-fashioned lamp.

And not a night has it ever been missing, shining like a star from the window of the little cottage, where Gordon Caryl and his sister had lived years and years, the true, honest friends of the gentle, patient, pitiful old woman, who waits, and waits, and waits!

About Circuses.

Circus men do not lead easy lives, nor do they make money rapidly. They seem to follow the business just as people go to see them perform—because they like it. There are in the United States, traveling the present season, no less than thirty-two different circus companies. The fitting out of a first-class circus, with a menagerie, costs fully $500,000. The expenses of a new tent, with poles, ropes, seats, lamps, banners and entrance curtains, is little short of $10,000. The baggage wagons range in value from $500 to $700. The extra horses needed for them are from $200 to $300 a pair, and the great gilded show chariots cost from $2,500 to $5,000. Trick horses range from $1,500 to $3,000 in value, and pad horses from $1,200 to $2,000; horseback act horses from $1,200 to $2,000. First class stock gymnasts and riders receive from $20 to $25 per week, and their board, for the traveling season. Firs-class men or women riders receive from $30 to $75 per week and their board; clowns from $60 to $100. Equestrian stars like Sebastain receive from $150 to $200 a week. Six or ten acrobats, six riders, and half a dozen super numeries usually form the complement of a circus, in addition to the stars. The daily expenses for such an establishment are from $600 to $1,000. Acrobats and gymnasts begin their education at four to eight years of age, when their young limbs are pliable, and sometimes earlier, and continue their violent exercises until nearly 50, when their muscles become too rigid for the work. It is a mistake to suppose that circus men lead dissipated and spendthrift lives. The exercise of their calling requires relaxed sinews, a clear head, and a body in complete health. A miscalculation, or a failure of strength during a leap, might entail death. They are, therefore, very sparing, or entirely abstemious in the use of strong drink, and very moderate in any gratification of sense whatever. Retired circus men may be found in any parts of the country, and are esteemed citizens. The amount invested in the circuses and menageries that are now in this country is estimated at $2,500,000. Circuses do not travel during the winter in the northern States. They either lay up until the spring and start upon their tours from the 1st of April to the 10th of May, or they travel in the Southern States, beginning their marches from the 1st to the 10th of November. About ten of the now show proprietors are very wealthy, as for instance, the Barnum party, Forepaugh, John Robinson, Barr Robbins, Coup, Hyatt Frost, of the Van-amburg show, and W. W. Cole. The great majority of show proprietors, however, from Dan Rice and John O'Brien down, are in the hands of the sheriff from two to twenty times during each season. The weather is their greatest enemy, a rainy day setting them back badly.

RENEW YOUR LEASE.

There are times in every one's life when energy fails and a miserable feeling comes over them, often mistaken for laziness. Danger lurks in these symptoms, as they arise from impure blood or diseased organs. Medical advice is expensive and often unsatisfactory. Parker's Ginger Tonic will renew your lease of health and comfort because it restores perfect activity to the stomach, liver and kidneys, and purifies the blood, as men and women restored to robust health testify in almost every neighborhood. See advertisment.—Advocate.

A FEARFUL FIRE.

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION IN THE CITY OF QUEBEC.

QUEBEC, June 9.—One of the most disastrous fires which this unfortunate city has ever been afflicted with, commenced last night and was only got under control at 6 o'clock this morning. The first alarm was from the corner of St. Oliver and St. Claire streets at 11:10 o'clock. A few minutes later, the bells from Basilica, St. John's and St. Roch's churches rang out a second alarm, and the whole force of the fire brigade was soon on the ground. The reflection of the flames was so visible that in a short time half the citizens appeared to be attracted to the scene, and about 11:30 o'clock all the avenues around and leading to the fire were so completely packed with people that it was next to impossible to force a way through them.

The scene in the vicinity of the conflagration was utter confusion. Half of those present seemed panic stricken, and three-fourths of the others only added to the confusion by running against each other and really contributing to the destruction of property, while believing they were helping to save it. Parents, partially clothed, hurried along in every direction with infants wrapped in bed clothing in their arms. Cows and horses let loose from burning stables, rushed half madde..ed through the crowd or stood dazed by the uproar and confusion surrounding them. The fire originated in a stable of St. Oliver street, near St. Marie street. The flames quickly spread to the surrounding wooden buildings and to the streets above and below.

St. Oliver, Latourelle, St. Mare and Richelieu streets were quickly a mass of fire for some hundred feet of each in extent, the flames from the other sides of the streets overlapping in the middle, and completely closing them to all traffic. The scenes common to all great fires were readily discernable at this stage, even the police and firemen were to a great extent demoralized. Daring robbery was carried on freely in full sight of everybody. Liquor stores and private dwellings attacked by the flames were ransacked for liquor, which was openly drank by the low characters who infest the locality. The sparks which everywhere flew from the burning wooden buildings were themselves a terrible source of danger to the rest of the city. It was not uncommon to see men's hats and coats ablaze from the burning pieces of shingle which lighted upon them. The fire brigade allege that four wooden houses were found on fire by them. When they arrived upon the scene and with water absent and unattainable for some twenty minutes it was impossible for them to obtain the mastery. Nothing was saved of St. John's church but the sacred vessels and some of the most valuable of the plate and furniture of the sanctuary. The fire had possession of the re structure in almost less space of time than it takes to read of it, and the finest and largest church in the city was doomed to destruction. The church was worth at least $100,000, upon which the insurance amounts to only $10,000. At the foot of Juniper street, below Berthlot market, the flames had crossed from the lower side of St. John street, and from this point they rapidly progressed westward along that fine avenue, keeping pace with the other divisions of the conflagration opposite. Nor was the fire now confined to St. John street. At Juniper street it spread southward to Berthlot market place, destroying property on Gabriel and St. Patrick streets, as far out as there were buildings to be destroyed. A lower field alone stayed the progress of the fire. At Scott street the fire ran upwards toward Grand alley at a terrible rate of speed, there being no water, men or hose, nor other appliances to stay it. Only a gap, caused by the recent conflagration here, stopped the total destruction of the whole street.

THE BURNED DISTRICT.

It is impossible to describe the spread of the flames on every side. Briefly summed up, the streets consumed, are Richmond in part, principally the south side, Latourelle, St. Oliver, Richelieu, Duquillon and St. John ward, Montcalm, St. Gabriel, Nouville and Breton. Running north and south the principal streets were Sutherland and Deligny, St. Clair, St. Marie and St. Genevieve, west side, beside Jupiter street in Montcalm ward, also west side. Among the property destroyed on John street were a large number of handsome buildings used as stores and private buildings. "A" battery was called out and rendered efficient aid in saving property and in keeping order.

THE LOSS.

It is computed that there must be a loss of $2,000,000 between the building, stock and furniture. Over 1,500 families are rendered homeless by the conflagration. At least eight hundred buildings have been destroyed. The fire brigade and apparatus was quite unfit to cope with such a fire and to its weakness and the wretched water service the whole disaster is due.

A novelty in architecture is now being erected by Mr. Lafferty on the grounds of the new park near South Atlantic City. It is intended for a restaurant, and is to be shaped precisely like an elephant. The large dining room will be in the body, with a kitchen in the neck. The winding stairs from the ground will be through the legs of the monster. On the back is to be placed a very handsome pavillion, from which a cool breeze and fine view of land and ocean can be enjoyed. The breadth of the whole building will be sixty feet and its height fifty feet. This is the first attempt made in the United States to construct a building in this form. During the reign of Louis Phillippe a similar structure was erected in Paris and attracted great attention for years, but soon after the restoration of the Empire it was demolished.

Dr. James More of Ironton, Ohio, thinks he has discovered a specific for small pox in lemon juice, which he used in his own case with such results as to make him say: "So strongly am I convinced of the power of lemon juice to abort any and every case of small-pox that I look upon it as a specific of as much certainty and power in small-px as quinine is in intermittent fever. I therefore publish my experiment, hoping every physician having a case of small pox will give it a fair trial and report the case to me."

Fresh Water in the Atlantic.

One of the most remarkable displays of nature may be seen on the Atlantic coast, eighteen miles south of St. Augustine. Off Matanzas Inlet and three miles from shore, a mammoth fresh water spring gurgles up from the depth of the ocean with such force and volume as to attract the attention of all who came in its immediate vicinity. This fountain is large, bold and turbulent. It is noticeable to fishermen and others passing in small boats near the shore. For many years this wonderful and mysterious freak of nature has been known to the people of St. Augustine and those living along shore, and some of the superstitious ones have been taught to regard it with a kind of reverend awe, or holy horror, as the abode of supernatural influences. When the waters of the ocean in its vicinity are otherwise calm and tranquil the upheaving and troubled appearance of the water shows unmistakable evidences of internal commotions. An area of about half an acre shows a troubled appearance—something similar to the boiling of a washe.woman's kettle. Six or eight years ago Commodore Hitchcock of the United States Coast Survey, was passing this place and his attention was directed to the springs by the upheavings of the water, which threw his ship from her course as she entered the spring. His curiosity becoming excited by this circumstance, he set to work to examine the surroundings, and found six fathoms of water everywhere in the vicinity, while the spring itself was almost fathomless.

Stirring the Waters.

A gentleman of Philadelphia furnishes an interesting point in connection with the recent revision of the New Testament. It will be observed that the miraculous stirring of the waters of the pool of Bethesda, as told in the fifth chapter of St. John, has been omitted by the revisers. This was done because, from the documents in the possession of the two committees, there was reason to believe that the story was spurious, and has been unwarrantably inserted in the translations of the original. The part omitted reads: "For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool and troubled the water; whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in was made whole of whatsoever disease he had." This stirring of the waters, which in the early days of the church had been ascribed to supernatural causes, constantly occurs at a spring in Kissingen, Germany, and is due to natural conditions. The medicinal qualities of the spring are strongest when at a periodic time the surface of the water is stirred by a curious effervescence resembling the action of boiling. It is believed that from such a spring originated the insertion of the alleged miracle in the New Testament.

DR. MOTT'S ENDORSEMENT OF SPEER'S CELEBRATED PORT GRAPE WINE.

The following from the celebrated Dr. Mott, of New York, speaks wonders for Mr. Speer's efforts to raise the Oporto Grape in New Jersey. The doctor has spent years in Portugal and the wine districts of France, and knows what he is talking about.

62 Madison Avenue, New York, April 11, 1878.

Mr. Alfred Speer—Dear Sir: The visit which I made last year to your Vineyards, wine presses and vaults at Passaic, N. J., satisfies me thoroughly that the wines manufactured by you are pure and unadulterated, and the very best that can be offered to the public for medical uses.

Acting upon my favorable impression at the time, I have since recommended the Port Wine; more particularly in my practice, and am satisfied, with marked benefit to my patients.

There can be no better proof to the doubting mind, as to the wine being made of finest Oporto grape, than a visit to the acres of land covered with the vine bearing the luxuriant fruit. Wishing you success in your praiseworthy enterprise, I remain respectfully yours,

ALEX. E. MOTT, M. D., Prof. of Surgery, Bellevue Hospital Medical College, &c., &c. This wine is for sale by C. A. Kleim, druggist, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Wars of the Humming Birds.

Whenever it happens that two of the the species meet among my flowers, they signal the encounter with a shrill war cry and dash at each other in fierce antagonism. The spirit of Bellona inflames their souls. For an instant they close together, then give each other chase, and with the speed of meteors are lost to my view. Shortly after, the return of one alone announces that the victory has been quick and decisive. Diminutive as are these puny sprites, they are heavily charged with combativeness. The entire race are pugnacious and quarrelsome to an extraordinary degree, impudently assaulting each other and birds of much greater size which venture into their neighborhood or occasion them a fancied annoyance. Even the hawk is not safe from their attacks, and has been seen worried and whipped by them. Mr. Bates remarks, in delineating their truculent disposition, and the perpetual battles occurring in every flowery nook in the tropics where they congregate, One will knock another off its perch, and the two will go fighting and screaming away at a pace hardly to be followed by the eye.—Sara Hubbard in Harper's Magazine for June.

A WORLD OF GOOD.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to the taste as some other bitters as it is not a whisky drink. It is more like the old fashioned bone set tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News.

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

Friday, June 17, 1881.

Last Sunday, no less than sixty lives were lost in cyclones in the West. The feeling of apprehension is growing intense.

R. W. Jackson, of Mercer county, was nominated for State Treasurer by the Greenback convention at Pottsville, on Wednesday last.

It is said that many of the bills passed by the late legislature will not receive the Governor's signature. Twenty of them have been laid aside for veto purposes.

A ridiculous bill has been introduced in the Michigan legislature imposing a fine of $1000 and imprisonment for a year, on any person publishing an account of a murder or hanging.

A writ of mandamus was served upon the State Treasurer on Wednesday, to test the legislative salary question. Hon. Charles F. Wolfe was the petitioner. There will be an argument on the the morning of the 23rd inst.

It may gratify our readers to hear that the court martial in the Whitaker case has ended, and that in the near future it may be known who split the colored person's ears. They have been an expensive pair of auricular nuisances to the country, and their disappearance from the public gaze will be a relief.

At the Convention of the Episcopal church of Central Pennsylvania held at York, Pa. this week, the question of a division of the Diocese was referred to a committee of eight clergymen and eight layman, to make report at the next meeting of convention next year at Mauch Chunk. The subject of an assistant Bishop for the present Diocese was referred to the same committee.

General Grant has always been indifferent to public opinion, and, apparently, heedless of censure, no matter how well deserved. It is not probable that he will be greatly moved by the expressions of contempt so liberally bestowed upon him, for his gratuitous intermeddling with Conkling's squabble with the New York legislature. Such influence as he once possessed has nearly vanished and he will soon be an eliminated factor in national politics.

The Louisville Courier-Journal pithily observes, "The administration should be made to understand that if the Conkling machine is smashed, the country is in no temper to see another machine of the same kind, with a different label only, set up in its place. That sort of business will not do." Conkling is vastly preferable to Chauncey M. Depew, Vanderbilt's attorney and a thorough monopoly man.

Probably the check for the largest amount of money ever drawn in this country was given by the Pennsylvania R. R. Company, last week, to pay for the Philadelphia Wilmington and Baltimore R. R. stock recently purchased. The money was not due until July 1st, but the excellent financial condition of the company justified the anticipation of the payment. The check was for $13,949,052.50.

Although the members of the legislature did not get their pay for the time spent in Harrisburg, beyond one hundred days, they were not utterly impecunious. They had money enough to buy gold watches, silverware &c. to present to the officers of the two houses, even the pages "chipping in." It is reasonable to suppose that the boarding house keepers and barkeepers also got what was due them, and thus are the only residents of the State who regret the departure of the statesmen from the Capital.

The Ohio Republican State Convention was held in Cleveland, on the 9th of June, Senator Sherman in the chair. The platform adopted endorses the administrations of President Garfield and Governor Foster and congratulates the latter on the successful refunding of the state debt at less than three and four per cent. interest. It also endorses the policy of giving full protection to American labor and discriminating in favor of home production. The temperance plank favors leaving the whole liquor traffic to legislation. General Charles Foster was renominated for governor by acclamation.

The Republicans are in trouble again as regards the election of an United States Senator. This time it is in the New Hampshire legislature, where there is a dead-lock in the Senate and the House have voted to postpone the election until the meeting of the next legislature. King Caucus seems to have lost his power, a fact attributable to the very despotic exercise of it in the immediate past. Legislative squabbles are not seemly, but as they appear to give proof of independence of thought and action on the part of members, should not perhaps be condemned. "Out of this nettle, danger," may perhaps, be "plucked the flower safety."

The Philadelphia Ledger speaking of one of the most outrageous forms of public plunder at Harrisburg, says:

"The disgraceful frauds upon the State Treasury arising from the employment of politicians who do not work as pasters and folders, messengers, clerks, etc., at Harrisburg, would not be perpetrated or attempted if these employees were paid reasonable salaries for the work they are supposed to do. Those who hire substitutes at two dollars a day to do the work for which the State pays six dollars a day have pointed out to the legislature the market price for such services, and if the wages were reduced to the market rate the State would save money and none of the employees could afford to do their work by deputy."

The State Treasurer recently inquired of Attorney General Palmer, whether he will be compelled to pay the full amounts claimed by members, and provided for in the general appropriation bill. Mr. Palmer in reply addressed a letter to the Treasurer, in which he re-asserts the opinion that the members of the legislature are not entitled to payment beyond the sum of $1000 each. The letter ends as follows: "My conclusion is that you ought to withhold payment to members on account of salary of any sum beyond $1000 for the session just closed." The members are much aggrieved and view Mr. Palmer's opinion with the most "extreme disgust." It now remains to be seen what the Supreme Court think of the matter, as the question will be submitted to them for final decision.

THE TROUBLE AT ALBANY.

The balloting for United States Senators, in Albany, still continues, with no apparent probability of a result. There has been no material change in the vote for Conkling, but Platt has lost ground, Chauncey M. Depew having run up to 54 votes. An additional feature of interest has been added to the struggle by the charge of bribery made by Assemblyman Bradley against Senator Sessions. Bradley asserts that Sessions gave him $2000 to vote for Depew; the money was handed to Speaker Sharpe and the matter exposed in the House. A committee of investigation was appointed, and is still in session. The testimony has been far from favorable to Sessions as regards character. He has been a notorious lobbyist and a paid agent to obtain legislation. There is great bitterness between the factions, Conkling's friends claiming that it is an undoubted case of bribery and Depew's adherents denouncing it as a conspiracy to injure their candidate. The breach is widening daily and the chances of reconciliation growing fainter.

COMMENDABLE.

One of the most meritorious bills passed by the Legislature just before adjournment, was that increasing the salaries of Judges of the Supreme Court. Hereafter the Chief Justice will receive $8,500 per annum and the others $8000. In view of the arduous labors performed by the judges and the importance of their work, there will be no grumbling at this increase of salaries. It has long been conceded that the compensation of the judges was inadequate and the increase, even at this late day, will meet with general approval. Not only are the duties of the Supreme Court judges, exacting, but they are of the utmost importance, affecting as they do the interests of the people of the State, and that finally. There is a strong feeling of opposition to increasing public expenses, but it does not extend to the payment of public servants whose labors are evidently great and worth more than the remuneration bestowed. There is no judge upon the bench, fitted for the position, whose income would not be larger if he were practicing at the bar, and although this is, perhaps, not a sufficient reason for the increase of salary, it is nevertheless entitled to consideration.

A STRANGE STORY.

An odd affair is reported in Wilkes-Barre. Last Tuesday, a man known as Frank Smith, proprietor of a shooting gallery, appeared before the Mayor, gave his name as F. D. Burrell and claimed that a girl, who he said was his daughter, was detained against her will at the Mansion House kept by F. D. Girton. This alleged daughter was living at the hotel in the capacity of housemaid, and was known as Emma Smith. Burrell testified that Emma was taken from her home in Rochester, New York, when but 2 years of age by his runaway wife, and that during the fourteen years that have since passed he has been scouring the whole country for her. He says he has traveled thousands of miles and expended thousands of dollars in the search. A Mrs. Smith and Miss Smith from Pittston were present at the hearing and claimed to be Emma's stepmother and sister, and that Emma was 19 or 20 years old. Emma herself says she did not believe she is Smith's child, but refused to go with Burrell until he should furnish further proof of his right to call her daughter. It is a complicated case. A despatch received from S. T. Black, deputy sheriff of Broome county, states that Burrell's reputation is bad and that he is wanted for some offence committed in New York State. Mr. Girton denied that the girl was detained and as Burrell could not prove the fact, no order was issued. The case created no little excitement.

NO MORE POOL.

The following is the text of the excellent law forbidding the playing of pool, or other games of chance, for drinks. It will meet the approval of all reputable citizens, as the evil habit prohibited was rapidly transforming the youths of the land into drunkards and gamblers. There should be no laxity in enforcing this law, which is eminently just and proper, and all offenders should be considered as enemies of youth and punished accordingly.

Section 1—That if the proprietor, keeper, lessee or manager of any saloon, hotel, tavern, inn, billiard room or other place of resort or entertainment shall keep, maintain or permit to be played upon his premises, or in connection therewith, or having passage or communication to or with the same, the game or amusement of pool with balls, or any other game of chance, the result or price of forfeiture of payment in any form of such game or amusement shall be by drinks of vinous, spirituous, malt or brewed liquors or any admixture thereof, he or she shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced for the first offense to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than ninety days, and for the second offense to pay a fine of five hundred dollars and to undergo an imprisonment of not less than one year; and any license granted for the keeping of such saloon, hotel, tavern, inn, billiard room or other place of resort or amusement shall, upon such second conviction, be declared null and void by the court in which the said second offense shall be tried. Approved June 1, A. D., 1881.

THE LATE LEGISLATURE.

The very general expression of pleasure at the adjournment of the Legislature, is proof positive that the recent session had earned the disapproval of the people of the State. The number of laws enacted is small and the work could have been done in a decorous manner, in less than one hundred days. Instead, however, of devoting themselves to the transaction of public business, the members frittered away their time in undignified attempts to harass Attorney General Palmer for his official opinion as to the salaries due them. Whether he was right or not, does not enter into the question—the manner of procedure adopted by the members is indefensible. It is to be regretted that the many honest and well meaning men who desired to do what was right and just, suffered themselves to be overruled by the "lewd fellows of the baser sort." Unfortunately for the people, the clique of noisy politicians known as "roosters" were quite well versed in parliamentary tactics and being thoroughly unscrupulous were enabled to shape or retard legislation as they desired. The House was unfortunate in having such a Speaker as Hewit. He is utterly devoid of dignity and left the chair on more than one occasion to indulge in the vilest abuse, upon the floor. To him, more than all others, is the disorder and turbulence of the House to be charged. The voters of Blair county will do well to let him remain at home hereafter. Taken as a whole the session was barren of good results, its record was unworthy, and the members who preserved their reputations, ought to be thankful that they escaped defilement. The Philadelphia delinquent tax law was not repealed, and for this failure the people of the city have themselves to thank. When they succeed in sending reputable representatives to the legislature, they will receive more sympathy and assistance from country members, and from the people of the State.

THE STORM'S WORK.

The storm of last week did great damage in various parts of the State, the loss of property being very heavy. The flood in the West Branch carried away several sections of the Lock Haven boom and fifteen or twenty millions of feet of lumber were swept away. Much of this will be recovered. A tremendous earth slide near Whetham on the Philadelphia & Erie R. R. wrecked a freight train. Fourteen cars were smashed or destroyed by fire, Geo. Brand, a brakeman, was instantly killed, and he was the only one injured. A train on the Bald Eagle Valley road, near Eagleville was thrown from the track and badly damaged. The passengers escaped with scratches and bruises. Washouts are reported in many places on different railroads. At Pittsburg the river rose twenty nine feet and the low lands along the bank were flooded. Families were compelled to abandon their dwellings, and seek places of safety on higher ground. The losses of lumber are immense and is believed will aggregate $1,000,000. Fortunately no lives were lost. Work in some of the large manufacturing establishments along the river will be suspended for some days to come. The Paxton creek overflowed its banks at Harrisburg and the lower part of the city was inundated. Gardens were destroyed, fences and out buildings washed away and much damage done.

The storm extended over a great region of country and was very severe along the New Jersey coast. The southern mails were delayed by a washout of the railroad track near Havre-de-Grace, Md. In Minnesota the storm was exceedingly severe and was accompanied by a gale that prostrated buildings, uprooted trees and destroyred the growing grain. Two or three lives were lost by falling buildings. Such a heavy and prolonged storm in June is something unusual, and may be included in the list of extraordinary happenings in this year of grace 1881.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE.

It was my privilege to be present at the closing sessions of the legislature last week. Everybody has heard of the confusion that attends the making of laws in this state, but no one can realize the extent of it, until he has seen with his eyes and heard with his ears. While bills were being voted on, on final passage in the House, the members were engaged in throwing paper balls at each other, and the conversation and general hubbub was such that it was utterly impossible to tell how a member voted while the yeas and nays were being called. The reading clerk, Pearson, called the roll of two hundred members and took their votes on one bill in two minutes and forty-five seconds. Not more than one half the members vote unless some bill of importance is up, but this does not prevent the Chief Clerk, Harry Huhn, from recording them on whichever side he thinks will do the most good. It is asserted that a certain measure which, according to the clerks tally, failed of passage by one vote on Wednesday night, actually received enough votes to pass it. While it is well known in Harrisburg that Huhn has been in the habit of passing or killing bills by manipulating the tally list, I have never observed in the reports of legislative proceedings that anybody has ever made an effort to put a stop to his corrupt practices. It would have been a proper thing for some of the so-called reform statesmen to have taken this matter in hand, by insisting upon it that the laws should be made by those who were sent there for the purpose, and not according to the whim of the clerk.

One of the first things that strikes the visitor to the House, is that the constutional convention made a grave blunder in increasing the number of representatives. This has made an unwieldly body, and the quality of statesmen has deteriorated in a far greater ratio than the quantity has been increased. There are undoubtedly some able men in the legislature, but these are an exception to the rule. There are altogether too many young and inexperienced hands at the wheel, a fact that is made clearly apparent by reference to the proceedings of the past session. The minds of the majority of the members seemed to be more interested in the question of salary, during the closing hours, than in the bills that were being rapidly read on final passage. A committee of the Senate and House was appointed immediately after adjournment to conduct proceedings in the courts, to compel the State Treasurer to pay the extra five hundred dollars to each member, which under the advice of the Attorney-General he has refused to pay. For a session of one hundred and fifty days, if the time were profitably spent, fifteen hundred dollars is not too much, but that is not the point in dispute. It is simply whether the law which allows a per diem of ten dollars after one hundred days, is constitutional, and the motive of the Attorney General in deciding that it is not, can have very little to do with it.

As the legislative apptionment bill did not pass, a special session will probably be called by the governor for next winter.

THE TROUBLE IN MILLERSBURG.

A despatch from Lancaster dated June 9th gives the following interesting account of the scholastic mutiny, which has caused so much excitement throughout the State: "The troubles which have been brewing in the Millersville State Normal School, four miles from here, for some weeks, came to a climax this morning, when between seventy and eighty of the students, who withdrew from the school on Monday, marched down to this city under the escort of about one hundred and fifty of their companions and departed for their various homes. The circumstances which led up to the present situation are briefly as follows: Among the rules of the institution is one forbidding any of the students to see their friends anywhere else than in the parlor of the school building. The female students are not permitted to show their fathers or brothers around the grounds, nor the male students their mothers or sisters, even on anniversary occasions. Even visitors are not allowed in the grounds accompanied by persons of the opposite sex. A gentleman came from West Chester not long since with his wife to call upon her sister, who is a student in the school, and was compelled to separate from her while passing from the street to the buildings. A graduate of the school stopped to converse with two old ladies, parents of some of his former classmates, who were seated in the grounds, and was ordered away by some of the teachers.

Last Friday Dr. Brooks addressed the students in the chapel upon the subject and in the course of his remarks prohibited any public criticism of the rules of the school by the students, upon pain of suspension or expulsion. This occasioned even greater indignation among the students and at a reunion of the literary societies, held on Saturday evening, the editor of the occasion, J. W. Coates, of Lycoming county, read an article fiercely attacking this effort to suppress freedom of speech, as Dr. Brooks' action and that of the faculty was described. The editor's sentiments were rapturously applauded by the large assemblage of students present and the enthusiasm was redoubled when J. B. Hipple, of Mount Joy, took the floor and in his capacity as critic gave Coates a vigorous endorsement for the stand he had taken. The affair terminated in a vote of thanks to the editor and critic, which passed with a rush. All this occurred in the presence of Dr. Brooks, who constituted one of the audience. On Monday the faculty took cognizance of the matter and expelled Coates and suspended Hipple. In anticipation of this event a paper had been put in circulation among the students pledging the signers to leave the school if Coates and Hipple were dismissed. The faculty remained firm, the rebels resolute, and, as soon as the sentence had been pronounced upon the offending editor and criite, final arrangements were made for an extensive withdrawal from the institution. Tuesday night there was an enthusiastic gathering of the disaffected, in which pledges were exchanged to stick to the last, and Coates and Hipple were lionized by their companions. On Wednesday morning there were a few additional suspensions, and the fiat that went forth all who manifested sympathy with the malcontents by accompanying them to Lancaster would be similarly treated.

The female students, who are in close sympathy with the revolt against the rules, were refused permission to see the boys off, but they disobeyed, even though ordered back with a club, and when the line moved towards Lancaster they assembled in the yard and shook hands over the fence with the revolters. A band led the way and a prominent feature of the display was a banner borne aloft by one of the students bearing the legend, "Free Speech," in large characters. Along the line of march the procession was cordially greeted. Arrived in this city the body assembled in front of the office of the Intelligencer, which newspaper has taken up the cudgels quite energetically in behalf of the rebels, and after the band had played a serenade, three rousing cheers were given for its editors. The party then repaired to the Pennsylvania Railroad Depot and about sixty of the number left for their homes, their departure being the occasion of tremendous cheering. It is said the number of departures will reach one hundred."

A Coal Miner Impaled on a Priming Needle.

A miner named Charles Gilgallon, of Archbald, is suffering from one of the most painful accidents that ever occurred at that place. He had with him in the chamber where he worked a boy who helped him to load coal and put away his tools. While inserting a charge of powder for the purpose of blasting down some coal, Gilgallon handed the priming needle, a sharp, slender tool five feet in length, to the boy, who threw it into the "gob," with the point sticking upward. As soon as Gilgallon fired the fuse leading to the blast he jumped on the "gob," to get out of the way and was impaled upon the priming needle, which entered at the groin and came out just back of the arm-pit. Physicians say it penetrated the liver and right lung. With the needle thus sticking through him, Gilgallon ran some distance, then staggered, fell and called the horrified boy to his assistance. In the fall the miner's light went out, and the lamp in the lad's hat revealed a shocking spectacle when he went to his aid. With much difficulty he pulled the needle from Gilgallon's body. Just then the driver came along and called out, "Bring on that car." The wounded man sprang to his feet and pushed the wagon out of the chamber without any assistance, then walked about 300 yards along the gangway, until he met two laborers, who helped him out of the mine. The doctors who are attending him think it possible that he may recover, as he is endowed with wonderful vitality and courage. Mine accidents are of frequent occurence and various kinds, but nothing so peculiarly painful as this has ever happened before.

The editor of the Wilkes-Barre Union-Leader is correct in his surmises. We are agricultural and horticultural and pomological and all that sort of thing, and Bloomsburg strawberries are rather mammoth, thank you.

A strawberry and ice cream festival will be held in Evans' Hall, on Friday and Saturday evenings, June 24 and 25, by the members of the Evangelical church, of Bloomsburg. All are invited. Proceeds for the benefit of the new church.

It is very fashionable for young ladies to part off the entire front of the hair from temple to temple, then to cut it short enough to arrange in soft, loose, curling rings or Bernhardt waves about the head.

"When I publicly testified that I had been cured of a terrible skin humor by the Cuticura Remedies, I did so that others might be cured, and do not regret the time given to answering inquiries."—Hon. William Taylor, Boston.

The Danville Record states that Martin Fisher, a Pole, recently lifted 1500 lbs. at the Montour Iron and Steel Works. Subsequently, William H. Aten, at the Glendower Iron Works lifted three rails weighing 1680 lbs. These are certainly prodigious feats of strength.

Mr. M. B. Trescott, County Surveyor, furnishes the champion snake story of the season. While surveying in Wyoming county a few days ago, the line led him through a den of rattle-snakes and he, with his attendants, killed twenty-seven rattle-snakes in the short space of forty-eight feet.—Mountain Echo.

We have been shown a Sharpless seedling strawberry, grown in the garden of Thomas L. Gunton, that measures six inches in circumference. This is the largest specimen of this mammoth variety we have yet seen. It is absurd to speak of such monsters as "small fruit."

A festival will be held at Orangeville, in the new M. E. Church, on the evenings of Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. On Saturday afternoon at four o'clock, a dinner—or supper—will be served. The proceeds will be applied in the interests of the new church.

On Tuesday morning last, at about 11 o'clock, Celestia, wife of O. T. Wilson, died at her home in this town, aged 53 years. She had been a sufferer for more than a year and her death was not wholly unexpected. The funeral will take place this afternoon at two o'clock.

The Williamsport papers are poking fun at the Harrisburg Telegraph for publishing a sensational story to the effect that three booms on the West Branch had broken and that 550,000,000 feet of logs were floating in dense masses down the river. Not one-tenth part of the number stated really escaped.

Judge Elwell went to Wilkes-Barre on Tuesday to try the libel suit of W. W. Scranton vs. A. A. Chase, the editor of the Scranton Times. Judge Rice and Judge Woodward having been concerned in the trial of the case, out of which the alleged libel grew, refused to sit and called upon Judge Elwell.

St. Paul's church will be consecrated at ten o'clock in the morning of the 28th of June, by Rt. Rev. M. A. De Wolfe Howe, Bishop of the diocese. Rev. Thomas H. Cullen, formerly rector of the parish, will preach the consecration sermon. Futher particulars of the event will be given hereafter.

The daily Sun was eclipsed on Thursday afternoon of last week, but appeared on the following day. The publishers, Messrs Tate & Kahler have dissolved partnership and the latter is now sole proprietor. Mr. Tate has left town. Whether the Sun will shine with increased brilliancy under Mr. Kahler's management the future will show.

Cut-worms are reported as doing much damage in fields and gardens. Every variety of insect pest is promised the farmers this year. To the ordinary scourges of the army worm and the potato bug, the year 1881 seems to be adding a new insect pest in the shape of a black asparagus bug, which easily digests Paris green; and the destructive locusts in some regions are preparing to take the field.

When about twelve years old, said Mr. Geisman, of the Globe Chop House to our representative, I met with an accident with a horse, by which my skull was fractured, and ever since I have suffered with the most excruciating rheumatic pains. Of late I applied St. Jacob's Oil which has given me almost total relief.

Col. John G. Freeze was, on Wednesday, elected a member of the Standing Committee of this diocese, by the Convention in session at York. Mr. Freeze has for many years taken an active interest in church matters, and his friends will be glad to know that his services have been recognized, as evidenced by his election on this important committee.

A number of martins appeared in town on Monday morning last, and made it uncommonly lively for the sparrows. The visitors attacked the resident birds and utterly routed them, driving them away in a flurry of fear. The nests of the sparrows were torn to pieces wherever they could be reached by the martins, and our sparrow community was for the first time in its history, completely demoralized. If this visitation has the effect of subduing the pugnacity, greed and ill temper of the brown twitterers, the advent of the martins will meet with general approval.

Elsewhere in this issue of the COLUMBIAN will be found the advertisement of Mr. A. R. Bacon, an extensive dealer in pianos, organs and musical instruments. His warerooms in Wilkes Barre are the largest and most fully stocked of any in this part of the State. The beautiful Weber upright piano recently purchased for the Normal School, was obtained of Mr. Bacon. He is a reliable business man and merits the confidence of the community.

At Louis Bernhard's jewelry store there is on exhibition a silver badge, offered as a prize for the best marksman in the Catawissa Glass-ball Club. From a comparatively plain band, on the back of which is the pin, hang by small chains two crossed fowling pieces, and beneath these is a medal with raised rim. On the obverse is a miniature trap in high relief, and surrounding this is a row of bullets. On the reverse is the inscription "Catawissa Glass Ball Club." The workmanship is of the most artistic character, and the prize is well worth winning.

The Luzerne County Agricultural Society will hold its annual exhibition on the 21st, 22d and 23d days of September next, on the grounds of the Society at Wyoming. Among other features of the exhibition a premium of $5 is offered to each couple who get married on the grounds during the fair, and a preacher will be furnished gratis to tie the "knot." The Lycoming County fair will be held September 28th, 29th and 30th, and October 1st.

The business of Alexander & Woodhouse has increased to such an extent as to require them to enlarge their facilities. They have recently purchased a new wagon, and will keep two teams on the road. Mr. Alexander left on Tuesday morning for a two weeks' trip. This firm have the largest stock of tobacco and cigars, confectionery, and foreign and domestic fruits, of any house in this section, and are earning a wide reputation by their attention to business and fair dealing.

There is a bitter feeling between the newspapers of Wilkesbarre and Scranton and the Union Leader of the former city publishes daily, all the wicked deeds done in Scranton. The short-comings of that city are kept before the eyes of strangers, who are thus warned of the dangers that await them. This is an incentive to the citizens to behave properly, in order that the good name of the city may be preserved. The Union-Leader does not have this excellent end in view but desires only to set forth the wickedness of Scranton. Wilkes-Barre is a highly moral town, as all the world knows.

Last Saturday evening the retail department of Moyer, Bros.' drug store was thrown open for public inspection. The establishment is a credit to the town, and the proprietors have every reason to be perfectly satisfied with its appearance. The floor is laid with marble blocks; the upper portion of the woodwork is painted white and delicately striped with bronze; the lower portion is in what is called "hard oil finish," and is extremely attractive, possessing a rich color and high polish. An immense mirror reflects the interior, and the length of the room is apparently doubled; the glass is free from flaws and as clear as crystal. There are several handsome show cases and these are filled with brushes, soaps, toilet articles, cosmetics and fancy goods. One case is reserved for cigars. On the shelves are showy bottles, and on one side are cases containing proprietary medicines of all kinds and grades. There is no attempt at elaborate ornamentation, but everything is finished with the utmost neatness and with a view to permanency. There is not a finer store of the kind in the Wyoming Valley, and the people of Bloomsburg ought to feel a pride in its existence. Taken in connection with the wholesale branch of the business, Moyer Bros. may fairly claim to have as complete and attractive a drug establishment as is to be found in this part of the State.

That the grounds surrounding the Episcopal church are in bad condition, is true. But that it is owing to the carelessness or inefficiency of those having charge of the temporal matters of the church, is not true. For a long time the vestry have had a large debt to contend with, at one time as high as eight thousand dollars. Nearly all of this has now been raised, through the efforts of the Rector and the management of the vestry. As the church could not be consecrated until the debt was paid, all funds that could be raised have been devoted to that end, and there is yet a deficiency. It has been impossible to raise money for any other purpose. The church building is uninsured because the congregation did not furnish the means, when requested so to do. If the critic in one of our cotemporaries of this week, will advance the funds, or inform the vestry of some way by which the bills can be paid, all necessary repairs and attention will be given the building and grounds. Talk is cheap. Cash is quite a different thing. X.

SMALL POX.

The people of Bloomsburg may as well understand that there is small pox in the town. In the house of Henry Wolf on Fifth street, near Catharine, there have been two bona fide cases. These were the children of Mrs. Reeser, a widow, who lives near by. Three other children live in Mr. Wolf's house and as neither of them has been vaccinated, there is a strong probability that there will be other cases ere long.

We do not publish these facts to create alarm, but because it is eminently proper that the people should be made aware of the presence of this dangerous disease, and take precautionary measures. No danger need be apprehended if ordinary common sense is exercised. We are informed that during the illness of Mrs. Reeser's children, the neighbors have been constant in attendance, passing in and out of the house without any measures of care, and returning to their homes, at the risk of their own lives and those of their families. This is little short of madness. If the neighborhood of Fifth and Catharine streets is not soon a hotbed of disease, it will not be because the residents have failed to do what they could to make it such.

Small pox is the most contagious of all diseases, and too much care cannot be taken to guard against the poisonous effluvium. Not only does the contagion act by contact, but the disease may be caused by the dead body, even when it is not touched. Clothing will retain the contagious principle for months, and it can be conveyed by the air.

Only nurses should be permitted to remain in a house in which there is a small pox patient, and should occasion demand that they go out, every precaution should be taken to disinfect the person, and the clothing should always be changed. Where every measure of precaution is taken, the disease may be confined to the house in which it originates. If however, anybody and everybody is permitted to enter the house, and even the sick room, and then return home or attend to business and social duties, there is absolutely no limit that can be set to the spread of the disease. Small pox is naturally epidemic in its character and appears and disappears most unexpectedly. Its ravages can only be stayed by observing the rules laid down by physicians, and which we have briefly outlined. Bloomsburg is in no danger, if the residents of the vicinity where the disease now exists, take steps to protect themselves and the community. If they neglect these duties, there is imminent danger, and the sooner the fact is understood and appreciated the better. Vaccination is the best safeguard against the disease, and our readers would do well to undergo the operation.

The ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal church will hold a festival, this and to-morrow evenings, in Mrs. Ent's vacant storeroom on Main street. The proceeds will be applied to the liquidation of the debt of the church, and for so praiseworthy an object, there should be liberal aid extended. Every member and friend of the church should be willing to run the risk of more or less deranging his or her digestion, by partaking of strawberries, ice cream, cake and whatever delicacies may be set forth for consumption. Should a temporary derangement of the system ensue, it would comfort the sufferer to know that the pangs and pains were the result of battling in a worthy cause.

TAX COLLECTORS.

The County Commissioners have appointed the following collectors of taxes for the ensuing year: Beaver, C. A. Shuman; Benton, B. G. Kase; Berwick, James Jacoby; Bloom, Eli Knorr; Briarcreek, A. B. Croop; Catawissa, Jesse Mensch; Centralia, David Walsh; Centre, I. J. Hess; Conyngham, Jno. P. Hannon; Fishingcreek, E. L. Lemon; Franklin, Moses Hower; Greenwood, J. G. Girton; Hemlock, S. S. S. Shoemaker; Jackson, Z. A. Butt; Locust, Christian Small; Madison, David Williams; Main, D. B. Fetterolf; Mifflin, C. W. Hess; Montour, Peter S. Karshner; Mt. Pleasant, Elias Howell; Orange, Cyrus McHenry; Pine, P. W. Sones; Roaringcreek, D. W. Rarig; Scott, T. W. Hartman; Sugarloaf, Gilbert Hess.

NEW BASE BALL CLUB.

A meeting of those interested in base ball matters, was held in the Exchange Hotel, on Saturday evening. There were about twenty-five gentlemen present, and the subject of organizing a club was fully discussed. The following officers were elected: President, W. O. Holmes; Vice Presidents, W. R. Tubbs, W. J. Buckalew and U. H. Ent; Secretary, L. S. Wintersteen; Treasurer, D. Lowenberg. Committees were appointed to select uniforms for the players and to secure the fair grounds for practice and public games. The following have been chosen to constitute the nine for the present: Chesney, catcher, McCoy, pitcher, Shelley, first base, Stanton, short stop, Boice, second base, Hagenbuch, third base, Powell, left field, Fleischer, centre field and Malloy right field. This is certainly a strong nine and will give the clubs of neighboring towns plenty to do to win victories. It is expected that the suits will be ready in a few days. The boys will play a game at Locust Gap to-morrow, and on the following Saturday in this town with the Sunbury club.

PERSONAL.

Miss Agnes Buckingham is spending her summer vacation at home.

On motion of Col. J. G. Freeze, Geo. E. Elwell was admitted to practice in the Supreme Court, at Harrisburg, last week.

Miss Pennington, who has been visiting her cousin Mrs. Dr. Gardner, for some time past, returned to her home last week.

Rev. L. Zahner, and E. R. Drinker attended the Convention of the Episcopal church, of the Diocese of Central Pennsylvania, at York, this week.

E. D. Roarbach has given up his situation in Dentler's store, and Frank Wilson has taken his place.

Mrs. M. H. McKinney and daughter, Miss Ella, returned home on Monday, from Bridgeport, and other points where they have been spending several weeks.

J. H. Sands, youngest son of the late Joseph E. Sands, was in this county last week, visiting friends. Mr. Sands is engaged in the mercantile business at Bowling Greer, Ohio, and is one of the prominent citizens of that place. He had not been in his native place for five years.

THE ECLIPSE.

The total eclipse of the full moon on Sunday morning last, was attended by peculiarly favorable circumstances. The sky was absolutely cloudless, and the moon shone with a wonderful brilliancy that made its subsequent obscuration the more remarkable, by force of contrast. Although the hour was late when the celestial phenomenon began, many of our citizens waited and watched for the event. At twelve minutes past twelve, the shadow of the earth was first seen impinging upon the eastern edge of the orb. Slowly and steadily the shadow crept over the bright face, and in an hour the moon had passed from a rounded fullness to total obscuration. When the eclipse was total, the appearance of the moon was most peculiar. It somewhat resembled a yellowish-white paper lantern, illumined by a candle within. It was observed that there was no radiance whatever, as tiny stars in immediate proximity to the disc, came into view and twinkled brightly. The time of total obscuration was one hour and twenty-one minutes, and the time from the first touch of the shadow until its passage from the face of the moon was three hours and twenty-five minutes. The conditions under which the eclipse took place were such as to render it perfect in every respect. The moon was as near the earth as she ever can be, and her position in the heavens was that in which only so long an eclipse was possible. It was a glorious sight, and those who saw it will never regret that they witnessed one of the most impressive of celestial phenomena. A lifetime may pass before another total eclipse occurs under such favorable conditions.

A BAD SMASH.

After twenty years of exemption an accident has at last occurred on one of the high trestles of the Catawissa railroad. But this accident only entailed destruction of property, and the record is unbroken as regards loss of life. The trestles have always been considered dangerous and for this reason have been so carefully watched and guarded that they were really the safest part of the road. The disaster, which occurred on Saturday morning last, was not caused by the breaking of the woodwork, but by the defective construction of a foreign western freight car. The train had rounded a sharp curve and run on the trestle, when the car jumped the rails and went over the side, falling ninety feet to the ground beneath. The Empire Express car kept the track. The train hands were all in the caboose and this was saved by the breaking of the coupling. The falling car dragged down thirteen others, all of which were dashed to pieces. The cars were filled with miscellaneous merchandise for Catawissa, Danville, and Williamsport, and the ground was covered with assorted dry goods and groceries, farming implements &c. The loss will aggregate thousands of dollars.

The cars jumped the track before getting on the bridge, but the train was going so fast as to pull them along the track timbers, tearing their way through, and when just in the centre of the bridge, they toppled over, fourteen of them going to the bottom with a crash. The cars belonged to different roads, the Western Despatch, Chicago Central, Blue Line, Michigan Southern and others, and all were wrecked completely. Among the damaged and destroyed goods are shoes, tobacco, furniture, machinery, groceries, etc., to the estimated amount of $30,000. About four car loads of goods will be saved. The cars themselves will be a loss item of five thousand dollars. One of the brakemen was out on the train when the first car fell, and just reached the caboose as the last one was pulled from the bridge. The bridge was greatly damaged, two of the centre legs being totally destroyed on one side and hundreds of other heavy pieces broken. A gang of about one hundred and twenty-five men repaired the damages with the greatest expedition and travel was resumed on Tuesday.

FOURTH OF JULY.

The birthday of the nation is to be properly observed in Bloomsburg, the members of the Fire Department having taken the matter in hand. Meetings have been held and the preliminaries arranged. The full programme cannot yet be made public, but there need be no doubt that the ceremonies will be worthy of the occasion. A committee of three from each fire company has been appointed to cooperate with citizens and secure funds. It is expected that prominent citizens, in public and private station, will be present, and that military and fire companies and civic societies from abroad will participate. The name of the orator of the day has not yet been announced. We understand that there will be a parade and inspection, and that there will be various amusing games in the afternoon. Unless expectation fails there will be no lack of martial music, as numerous bands will be invited.

It is a matter for congratulation that Bloomsburg has determined to celebrate the day with old time fervor, and it is to be hoped that the festivities of 1881 will make that year memorable in the history of the county. Delegations in decorated wagons and on horseback, from all parts of the county will be heartily welcomed and are most cordially requested to join the parade. All such should address, without delay, Paul E. Wirt, Esq., who can give them all desirable information.

THE CONCERT.

The concert given in Institute Hall on Monday evening last, by the pupils of the music department under direction of Prof. Niles, may be fairly said to have answered expectation. The selections, vocal and instrumental, were, in the main, well chosen and creditably performed. There were piano solos, duets and trios, vocal solos, duets and quartettes, a trio for piano, organ and violin and an operetta—a sufficiently varied programme to prevent weariness on the part of the audience. The different performers on the piano evidenced an intelligent conception of their numbers and played with confidence and force. The programme was too long to permit comment on each selection, but it may be said that the pupils did justice to themselves and their instructor. The instrumental trio that closed the first part of the programme was the gem of the evening, both as regards the composition—a Polonaise—and the execution. The tones of the instruments blended admirably and the time was perfect. The operetta was performed by sixteen young girls who sang the choruses with praiseworthy volume of voice and with due animation.

A word should be spoken in praise of the new Weber upright piano, which was used for the first time in public. The tones were clear, rich and full, absolutely free from that metallic sound, too frequently to be observed in the higher notes, and the "singing quality" was the subject of much favorable comment. Prof. Niles is to be congratulated for obtaining so excellent an instrument.

THE DEADLY KNIFE.

The Danville Intelligencer of last week, gives an account of a desperate affray in that town between two parties of rowdies, in which one Anthony Dietrich, stabbed three or four men, none of them, fortunately, with fatal effect. The Intelligencer says: "It appears that one of the parties came along the road, hallooing rather loudly—the effect of too much beer or whisky, causing the other crowd to taunt them. This led to a fight between a young man named Oeschger and another named Fry. The latter proved too much for the former, and had him down pounding him when Oeschger's friend drew a knife and went in for doing a little carving. He cut Fry no less than four times, one of the slashes coming within a quarter of an inch of the carotid artery, which had it been severed, would have finished Fry. He also cut a young man named John Thomas and another named James Lewis. He also, in stabbing at Fry, managed to cut his friend Oeschger in one or both arms. This caused Fry to leave Oeschger, for his assailant said to be named Deitrich and knocked him into the mill race, which ended the fight. Fry, Lewis and Thompson all walked into Dr. S. Y. Thompson's and had their wounds dressed."

Dietrich was subsequently held to bail in the sum of $800 for his appearance at court to answer the charge of assault and battery with intent to kill. There has been far too much rowdyism in Danville, of late, and it has become absolutely necessary for the peace and safety of the community that an example be made of some of the offenders. This outrageous assault by Dietrich, deserves and should receive adequate punishment, and the authorities should see that the man is tried for the offence.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The twelfth annual convention of the Columbia County Sunday School Association, convened in Zion's brick church, near Pealertown, on Tuesday, the 31st of May, and adjourned Wednesday evening June 1st.

Twenty-two schools were represented by delegates; and as great interest was taken by the neighboring people, all the sessions were interesting and instructive.

Discussions, open to all, were held on the principal topics of Sunday school work. "The financial support of the Sunday school," "The qualifications and duties of a superintendent," "The literature of the Sunday school," and "The benevolence of children," being among the questions discussed.

The secretary reported statistics from 48 schools, as follows: 3 Lutheran and Reformed, 3 Reformed, 3 Lutheran, 2 United Brethren, 16 Methodist Episcopal, 11Union, 4 Presbyterian, 2 Baptist, 2 Episcopal and 2 Evangelical.

The above schools contain 272 officers, 432 teachers and 4,336 scholars; 34 use the International Lesson Leaves; 25 are open all the year; 40 are self-supporting; 26 contribute to benevolent collections and they have an aggregate of 8,631 volumes in their libraries.

Rev. G. B. Dechant was elected delegate to the next State Convention.

The next County Convention will be held in the M. E. church at Buckhorn on the last Tuesday in May, 1882.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Rev C. K. Canfield, President; Rev. D. M. Kinter, Vice President; A. N. Spear, Treasurer; L. F. Bower, Secretary. The Executive Committee consists of Aaron Smith, I. W. Hartman and T. B. Miller.

The Secretary is desirous of having a report from every Sunday school in the county, and any school which has not yet reported will confer a great favor by addressing him and receiving the necessary blanks. The Secretary is Lahman F. Bower, Berwick.

BERWICK LETTER.

Besides the addition to his dwelling house, J. S. McMurtrie is remodeling the old part.

Cruelty to dumb animals is no uncommon thing in this place.

Scarlet fever is reported by two or three families.

Quarterly meeting services will be held in the M. E. church next Sunday. Presiding Elder, Rev. W. W. Evans, will then make his last visit to this place, previous to his voyage to Europe.

Prof. Johnson, (Blind Charlie,) gave an excellent concert in Association Hall on Monday evening.

A son of Oliver Clewell died on Sunday and was buried on Tuesday afternoon.

Bessie, daughter of W. S. Paul, died on Tuesday morning, aged six years. She was interred in the cemetery, in this place, on Wednesday afternoon.

We noticed the friendly face of Mr. "Ed." Distlehurst in town the first of the week.

Floral Sunday was observed last Sabbath at the M. E. church. The exercises in the morning, afternoon and evening were of a very high order. The flowers were splendidly arranged and the children were delighted.

It is doubtless a good idea for the Fire Company to get a steam engine; it is what they need and should have, but we do not think it wise for them to buy a second-hand engine, as is talked of. The one they have is a second-hand machine, and is a fair sample of old engines.

Every evening for the past few days, Rev. Mr. Hile has been preaching on the street corner.

Mr. B. S. Gilmore started on Thursday, for Savannah, Georgia.

We learn that a child by the name of Beck, died on Wednesday, of spotted fever.

Mr. Charles Westler, a former resident of this place, was married at his home in Iowa, to a lady of the same place.

A DANGEROUS COUNTERFEIT.

There is a dangerous counterfeit in circulation, purporting to be "Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer." The strongest evidence of the great value of "Walnut Leaf Hair Restorer" is the fact that parties knowing its efficacy try to imitate it. Each bottle of the genuine has a "fac simile" of the signature of "D. E. Becker"—the manufacturer—blown in the glass; and the "Restorer" is as clear and harmless as water, while it possesses all the component properties necessary to restore life, vigor, growth, and color to the hair. BARBED WIRE are undoubtedly the cheapest and most durable fence made, is not effected by fire, wind or flood, does not cause snow drifts, takes fewer posts and stock cannot push it down. Our wire is four pointed, is made of two strands of number 12 best galvanized steel wire twisted together just enough to allow for contraction and expansion in Summer and Winter, barbs are fastened every seven inches. The use of barbed wire is no longer an experiment, as last year over one hundred thousand miles were put up. We believe our wire to be the best and cheapest now manufactured because it is made of the best steel wire and runs 15 feet to the pound having the greatest strength and visibility with the least weight of any made. Put up on spools of about 100 rods weighing about 100 pounds, Price per pound 11 cents by the spool, less quantities 11½ cents per pound.
FENCES

NEW STOCK.

We have been adding considerable to our House Furnishing Goods; our line of Cooking Stoves and Ranges comprises many new and useful features not found in other stocks. We have the White Mountain Ice Cream Freezer, triple motion; examination alone is sufficient to show their superiority over any other make. We are, without question, headquarters for Cutlery. Our variety of Scissors, Shears, Razors, Pocket and Table Cutlery is greater than the stock of all the stores in town, giving you the advantage of selection. Prices run according to quality. Our stock in general, has all been gone over, sorted up, and is larger than ever. We are paying special attention to Mechanics' Tools, and invite examination. Any odd tool not in stock furnished in three days. For the benefit of those to whom it may concern, we take Irondale, McKelvy's or Lockard's orders at cash value.

TINSMITHING.

It does not seem to be generally understood by some of our trade that we are prepared to do Tinsmithing in all its branches. This we have often noticed by the expressions of surprise of many who, when in the rear of our store, noticed men working in an adjoining building. We carry a full stock of Tin and Tinsmith's Supplies and are prepared at all times to do all kinds of work. As low prices seem to be the most popular we have

THE

Capitol of American Clothing

Oak Hall,

S. E. Cor. Sixth and Market Streets, Philadelphia.

THE

1861—20th Spring—1881

Twenty years of lessons in how to make and sell the best clothing. We have begun the twenty-first. All that we have found out about it, we have put into practice in making up the 2½ acres of clothing that you will look at for our trade; it is the very largest retail clothing stock in the country; worth every cent we ask for it; and we guarantee every article.

More and Better Materials in
More and Better Clothing in Oak Hall
Lower and Fairer Prices in

Than in any other retail clothing house anywhere within reach of American money.

The secret of our great business is only this: Doing our level best to make up the right kind of clothing, and having made it right, then counting the cost, and

SELLING AT THE RIGHT PRICES.

This we have been doing for twenty years; and have clothed over hundred of thousands,—old and young.

This Spring we Overtop every Past Spring.

The spring has been so backward that we have had ample getting-ready time, and the extraordinary stock of clothing that every man and boy may choose from is without equal in America. The stock is something wonderful.

SOUND AS HONEST WORK CAN MAKE IT.

The best sewing on the best cloths, the best trimmings, the best styles, and the best money's worth that can be put into clothing anywhere. It is a great thing to say, that not another house in the land can do so much in clothing you so well. The cloths come direct to us; we buy them largely; we make up the clothing in our own well-ordered ways,—knowing all the things that belong to making clothing well,—and they will go direct from us,—the makers,—to you,—the wearers,—not a profit between. That's why OAK HALL has the lowest prices, as well as the best clothing.

During the past ninety days we have, in making up this new spring stock, so improved the patterns, our ways of making, and minor details, that this spring's exhibition of ready-made clothing might be fairly called

READY CUSTOM-MADE CLOTHING.

Being far in advance of any hitherto offered for immediate wear. This applies alike to Men's and Boys' Clothing.

Our Custom Clothing Department improves every year. We make to order from the finest fabrics, and believe we do the best work that can be done.

Orders by mail are filled with the same promptness and care that would be given to serving you in person.

Extending the compliments of the house, and a cordial invitation to everybody to come and see, and make trial of the 1881 Spring Clothing.

Value of Stirring the Soil.

Every one knows that wet soil is a great injury to growing crops. And yet a regular supply of moisture in the soil during the season, is one of the most important objects to accomplish. If soil, especially wet soil, is left undisturbed, it soon becomes hard; technically, "it bakes," and the moisture escapes with marvelous rapidity. It is therefore an object to keep the surface loose. Moisture does not escape as rapidly through a loose surface as through a solid one.

In pursuit of this subject, however, cultivators often make a great mistake, and much injury results to corn, potatoes and other things. The cultivator is kept running all summer, the teeth often penetrating several inches deep, exposing the upturned surface to the sun, and in this way a vast amount of moisture evaporates that is really needed by the plants. It is of course much better than to have a baked surface; but there is loss for all, and loss that might easily be saved by a little thought.

The first stirring in spring should be deep in order to break up the compact earth, especially if the ground was plowed in the fall; but after this the working should be as shallow as possible. Firm soil—soil crushed and pressed when dry, holds moisture better than in any other condition, and is a very different thing to a merely loose soil through which the external air easily goes, and dries the moisture out. The more such partially-dried soil is pressed, the firmer therefore it becomes and more moisture it contains. This is the principle on which the good effects of the roller depends, and which has been so often explained in the Telegraph. Rolling and pressing when the soil is somewhat dry is indeed the whole science of pulverization, the good effects of which are so well known.

While, therefore, the first stirring should be done with deep and narrow teeth, so as to penetrate as deeply as possible, all subsequent workings should be with cultivators having short and broad teeth, just skimming the surface and cutting off instead of tearing out the weeds; and this advice is as good for the one who uses the hoe in the garden as for he who uses the horse cultivator in the fields.

In any case, the hoe should be started early. Hoeing and cultivating has now become among the most laborious of farm and garden tasks; and if the weeds once get ahead it is terribly hard work to keep them down. The best farmers do not wait for weeds to appear, if they can possibly spare the time from other work; but put the cultivator through as soon as the first spring sun cakes a little the exposed earth. The sprouting weeds are thus destroyed in the germ, and the work is comparatively easy all the season afterwards. Spring work is generally so pressing that it is not often that one can be so forehanded in the matter of early weeding. Happy is the man who can do it; but all should aim to get as near this happiness as possible.—Germantown Telegraph.

Tomatoes on Stakes.

A friend tells us that he was pestered beyond measure by the potato beetles last year. They not only fed on his potatoes, but eggplants and tomatoes suffered as well. He had read in the Telegraph that tomatoes would do well on stakes, and he found that the plants so treated escaped the ravages of the beetle, while those on the ground were almost devoured. The lower branches of the tomatoes on the stakes were eaten, but all above a foot were untouched. The idea is that the beetle is somewhat lazily inclined, at least when climbing has to be done. The hint is a valuable one. If this is not a mere accident, but a genuine protection against the beetle, it will be a new argument for stakes, although those existing are good enough. There is no doubt that the plants are more productive on stakes or high trellises, than when grown in any other way, and then the influence of the sun all around alike is favorable to a thorough ripening of the fruit, improving the flavor considerably, especially in the estimation of those who like to eat tomatoes raw.

It may be repeated that the stakes for tomatoes must be very stout and strong, as the weight of the fruit requires something substantial to rest upon, and if the stakes can have arms or knots to help sustain the branches, it will be better than depending on twine alone. The stakes must be planted in the ground firmly before the plants are set. These plants are easily kept in position by a light tying until the fruit comes, when the weight requires good judgment to secure them well.—Germantown Telegraph.

A farmer in Otsego county, New York, has two main pastures on his plantation. He confines his cows for two seasons on one of these, giving the sheep the other. Then he changes them, putting the cows into the sheep pastures, where they are kept another two years. Then another change is made, and this alternation is kept up every two years. In this way the pastures are constantly enriched by the droppings of the cows and sheep; and the cows eat the feed in the places shunned by the sheep; and the sheep eat the grass in the places where the cows refuse it. This practice is said to have had very satisfactory results.

The bronze variety of turkeys is the one which gives the best satisfaction as a rule, and consequently is more extensively propagated than any other breed. In making a selection for breeding purposes it is important that the fowls should be vigorous and well proportioned. For market, the medium-sized hens, weighing from eight to ten pounds, are in most demand, and they fatten much more readily than the long-shanked, overgrown specimens, which will eat enormously without showing a corresponding increase in flesh.

HUMBUGGED AGAIN.

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months use of the bitters, my wife was cured and she has remained so for eighteen months since. HOW TO SAVE.

All men and women who work hard with mind or body are subject to periodical attacks of biliousness, which may end in disordered kidneys or liver and dangerous illness. A 50 cent or $1.00 bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic will keep these organs active, and by preventing the attack save you much sickness, loss of time and great expense. Many families are kept in perfect health by using the Tonic when spring or fall sickness threatens. Delay at such times means danger.—Detroit Press. See other column.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Leck's Mill's, Oxford co., Me.

Messrs. Morris & Ireland:

Gents:—On the 22nd of November, 1879, our spool mill at this place, 50x6?, two stories high, was totally consumed by fire, in which there was a large quantity of spool lumber, spools and blocks, all seasoned. The fire burned for three and a half days. We had one of your safes in our mill and Tuesday morning following, eighty hours after; the fire, it was too hot to handle, being covered with burning blocks. Some time after it was opened and the contents were in a good state of preservation, not a book or paper being destroyed. I am satisfied with your safes and have purchased another, and can cheerfully recommend them to any one wishing to secure their valuables from being destroyed by fire.

Yours truly, I. G. TEBBS,

TREMENDOUS TEST.

Roasting Thirty Hours in a Bed of Red Hot Coals.

Corning, N. Y., January 6, '81.

Morris & Ireland, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen:—On the night of the fire in our village on the 26th ult, I had in use one of your No. 5 Safes. I am pleased to inform you, after the floor gave way it fell into the cellar, into a heap of burning coal, where it roasted for thirty hours. Our citizens and myself gave up the hope of anything being saved in it. On being taken from the ruins I was happily disappointed to find my cash, vouchers and other articles of value perfectly preserved. The combination works well now. I am satisfied your new and improved work, one of which, a No. 20, I have ordered of your agent to-day, will afford absolute protection in any fire.

Truly Yours, E. S. BARNES.

STILL AHEAD.

Rochester, N. H., Dec. 10, '80.

Messrs. Morris & Ireland:

Dear Sirs:—In the disastrous fire which took place in this town Nov. 30, the Morris and Ireland safe in my store was subjected to a severe test, being thrown into the cellar and a huge mass of debris fell upon it, and it was in the ruins some two days. I take pleasure in informing you that upon excavation it was opened without trouble and the contents were found to be uninjured. I cheerfully recommend your safes and should I want another I should certainly purchase one from you.

Yours truly, G. W. HOWE.

STILL ANOTHER.

From the Great Fire in Troy, New York.

Troy, N. Y., December 11, 1879.

Messrs. Morris & Ireland, Boston:

Gentlemen:—After witnessing the charred books out of the safes opened, also one of my own which was another make, which was not in the heat of the fire like the No. 6 lately purchased of you, which was in the fire over forty-eight hours, and had to be continually played on during Monday night, as it was completely surrounded with burning muslins and other inflammable material, on opening it in the ruins Tuesday afternoon, I was pleased to find the contents, books, papers and money were all preserved in a remarkably good condition. With this proof of the fire qualities of your safe we have given your agent an order for one No. 8 safe.

Yours respectfully, DAVIS & CO.

THE GREAT

BOSTON FIRE.

JANUARY, 1880.

Morris & Ireland's Safes Again Triumphant—Messrs. Rice, Kendall & Co's. Large Safe Reveals its Valuable contents Intact, after being subjected to intense heat for One Hundred and Thirty Hours.

Boston, January 2, 1880.

Messrs. Morris & Ireland, Boston:

Gents:—On the night of December 28, last, the building occupied in part by us at No. 91 Federal street, and which was four stories high and about 200 feet deep, caught fire and was destroyed, with all its contents, consisting of a very large stock of paper, book binders' materials and other merchandize. While several other large buildings adjoining ours were burned at the same time, the flames were extinguished the following day, but our stock continued to burn for days thereafter. After a delay of 130 hours we were able to have our safe dug out from the ruins and opened, and were pleased to find all the contents well preserved. The safe contained our most valuable books, papers, policies, etc., and we now feel sure that our judgment was correct in buying one of your safes, which we decided to do after knowing the wonderful record of your safes in the great Boston fire of '72. We regard the protection of your safe as most remarkable, and this fire is a guaranty of its security to those who may wish to purchase.

Yours very truly, RICE, KENDALL & CO.

Also a Communication from Ex-Governor Alex. Rice.

Boston, January 2, 1880.

MESSRS MORRIS & IRELAND.

Gents: I have made careful examination of the contents of the safe purchased of you some years since by the firm of Rice, Kendall & Co., and which was subject to the test of enormous heat in the great fire of last Sunday night. I regard the security of the safe under the circumstances as most remarkable. None of its contents were burned, nor were any of them so injured by heat as to be materially damaged. I should commit any securities to your safe hereafter with additional confidence. With great respect, yours very truly.

Alexander H. Rice.

So. Norridgewock, Me., Feb. 1, 1881.

Messrs Morris & Ireland, Boston Mass.:

The safe I bought of you last October was in a two-story wooden building, which burned Jan. 28. The building took fire in the night, and the safe, building and its contents, fell into the cellar upon a pile of dry wood, making a hot fire which lasted for ten hours. The outside of the safe was heated red hot. It melted the handle and dial off the door. The contents consisted of watches, jewelry, silverware, books papers &c., all of which came out in good condition. Papers lying against the inside of the safe were not injured. The safe shows for itself what it is, and I feel well satisfied with what it has done. Please write what you can allow for it toward a new one, and oblige,

O. F. HALL.

BLOOMSBURG STATE NORMAL SCHOOL

SIXTH NORMAL SCHOOL DISTRICT.

Bloomsburg, Columbia County, Pennsylvania.

Rev. D. J. WALLER, Jr., Ph. D., Principal.

THIS SCHOOL, as at present constituted, offers the very best facilities for Professional and Classical learning.

Buildings spacious, inviting and commodious; completely heated by steam, well ventilated, lighted by gas, and furnished with a bountiful supply of pure, soft spring water.

Location healthful, and easy of access. Teachers experienced, efficient, and alive to their work. Discipline, firm but kind, uniform and thorough. Expenses moderate. Fifty cents a week deduction to all expecting to teach. Students admitted at any time. Rooms reserved when desired.

Courses of study prescribed by the State:

I. Model School. II. Preparatory. III. Elementary. IV, Classical.

Adjunct Courses: I. Academic. II. Commercial. III. Course in Music. IV. Course in Art. V. Course in Physical Culture.

The Elementary, Scientific and Classical Courses are PROFESSIONAL, and Students graduating therein, receive State Diplomas, conferring the following corresponding Degrees; Master of the Elements; Master of the Sciences; Master of the Classics. Graduates in the other Courses receive Normal Certificates of their attainments, signed by the Officers of the Board of Trustees.

The course of Study prescribed by the State is liberal, and the Scientific and Classical courses are not inferior to those of our best Colleges.

The State requires a higher order of citizenship. The times demand it. It is one of the prime objects of this School to help to secure it, by furnishing intelligent and efficient Teachers for her Schools. To this end it solicits young persons of good abilities and good purposes,—those who desire to improve their time and their talents, as Students. To all such it promises aid in developing their powers, and abundant opportunities for well paid labor after leaving School. For Catalogue, address the Principal.

HON. WILLIAM ELWELL, President Board of Trustees. F. P. BILLMYER, Secretary.

Directions

For Catarrh Hay Fever, Cold in the head, &c., insert with little finger, a particle of the Balm into the nostrils; draw strong breaths through the nose. It will be absorbed, cleansing, and healing the diseased membrane.

For Deafness, Apply a particle into the ear.

ELY'S CREAM BALM

Having gained an enviable local reputation, displacing all other preparations in the vicinity of its discovery, is, on its merits alone, recognized as a wonderful remedy wherever known. A fair trial will convince the most skeptical of its curative powers. It effectually cleanses the nasal passages of Catarrhal virus, causing healthy secretions, allays inflammation and irritation, protects the membranal linings of the head from additional colds, completely heals the sores, and restores the sense of taste and smell. Beneficial results are realized by a few applications. A thorough treatment as directed will cure Catarrh. As a household remedy for cold in the head it is unequaled. The balm is easy to use and agreeable. Sold by druggists at 50 cents. On receipt of 50 cents will mail a package. Send for circular, with full information.
